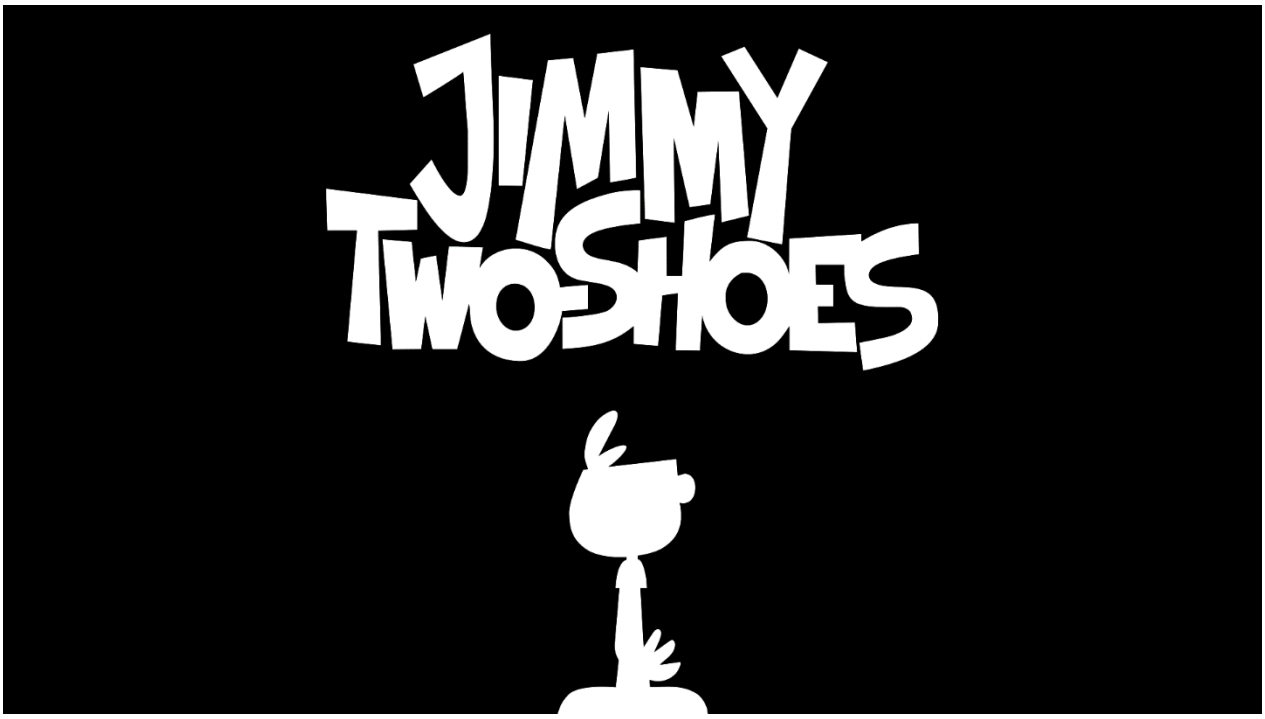
Jimmy Two-Shoes: Reignited

A fan made pitch based on the original pilot.



By Mr.Goatfarmer

Section list

What is this about anyway? P.3

The story and the main characters p.4

Minor characters p.14

Other characters that I have in mind p.16

Locations p. 21

Style p.23

Sources-Wikipedia, the lost media wiki, and the jimmy two shoes wiki.

Disclaimer.

I did not make the characters nor the story of this pitch. They were originally created by Edward Kay and Sean Scott. Also, some of the ideas here are just that, ideas.

What is this about anyway?

In the long-gone year of 2006, a 6-minute-long investor-paid pilot was made. The pilot itself was originally made as an exclusive Teletoon production for the studios' tween demographic at the time. However, Disney XD came on board, and the pilot was picked up for a tv series.... only for it to be changed to a Tv show for 6–11-year-olds. Shocking. I know. (I'm being sarcastic, this is not the first time they have done this. But that's not what this pitch is about.) How different is the show from the pilot? Lots of ways.

For starters, the pilot's premise would've been set in Hell. One of the main characters, Lucius Heinous VII, was the Devil as shown by his original name: "Lucifer", and Heloise (Another main character.) was supposed to be a brain-damaged serial killer who was sent to Hell. Now that sounds like a recipe for the next big kids show.

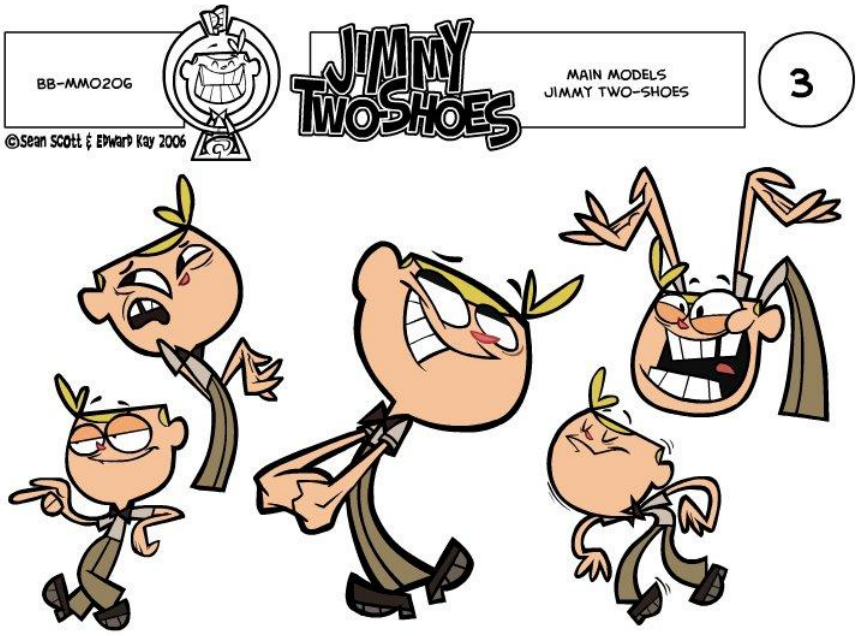
Now why am I talking about all this well...I am creating a Limited series based on the original pilot, so keep reading as I tell you about how I would make this forgotten pilot happen.

The story

The show begins with Jimmy helping an old lady cross the street. The lady drops her wallet, and when Jimmy picks it up for her, he falls into a pothole by mistake. He is later sent to Heck upon being mistaken for a thief. Jimmy thinks Heck seems like a wonderfully fun place, though that's not quite what it is.

The Main characters

Jimmy Two-Shoes



James "Jimmy" Two-Shoes is the eponymous protagonist of the show. He is a perpetually optimistic, thrill-seeking and effeminate 14-year-old human boy.

Jimmy is tall, has blonde hair and a gap in his teeth. He wears a grey shirt, brown tie, and a pair of beige jeans.

His backstory as to how he ended up in heck is that he was helping an old lady cross the street when he accidentally fell into a pothole. But thanks to an administrative error when St. Peter mistook the footage for him pickpocketing her, he ended up in the underworld. His mission is to spread happiness were ever he goes. One of his main methods of doing so is exploiting the fact that he, like the rest of the people in Heck, is 'undead'. Meaning any damage sustained by the cast would only inflict pain, including those which would be fatal. Should a character 'die' from their injuries, they would be brought back to life in heck.

Jimmy uses this gimmick to entertain himself, and others by hurting/exploiting injuries on his body in amusing ways. Examples include Jimmy falling from insane heights, being crushed, or performing other stunts that should be fatal, to no consequences. This makes him a source of irritation to Lucifer, whom Jimmy nicknames "Lucy". He has even casually taken off his own head to entertain others on multiple occasions only to re-attach it later. He is also distracted very easily and always thinks he can make anything fun. He often acts before he thinks and has financial problems. It is said that volleyball is his favorite sport next to soccer.

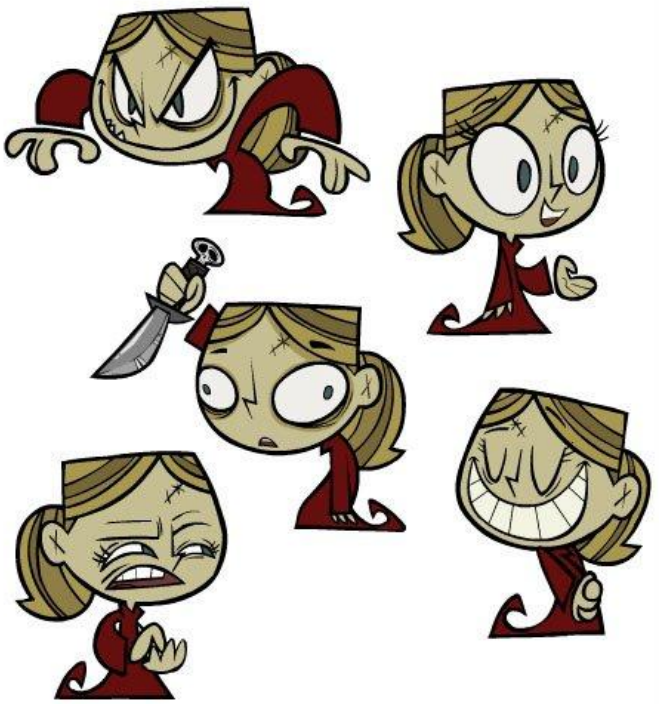
Jimmy has the courage to step into a life-threatening situation to help people. He is also oblivious and slow minded to the fact that Heloise has a crush on him, even when she tries to make it obvious, somewhat because whenever she tries to do something nice, it always backfires and turns into an evil plan.

Jimmy is the only one in Heck who isn't afraid of Heloise for his own "reasons". He's the only one that gives her any compassion. However, he has shown some affection for her on several occasions. Jimmy is quite gullible and easy to fool. It is shown that it is almost impossible to get him upset (one of the only things that make him upset is butterscotch.), and he is rather ignorant of the faults in others. He can sometimes get competitive and avaricious with others to get something he wants. He sometimes annoys other characters, especially Lucifer.

Because Jimmy lived somewhere besides the underworld, he mentions snow to Beezy and Heloise, both of whom are clueless about it, as it had never snowed there before. He doesn't know that Heck is a terrible place to live, for example. He did not know that the beaches in Miseryville were horrible places. He is also the only person aware of regular holidays or things like spring break, and he was also the only one aware of concepts like snow and carnivals that were unknown to some Miseryville civilians before he revealed it to them. He didn't know the definition of "grounded" in Miseryville (literally means being buried to the head up in sand and/or dirt). Jimmy's house is between Beezy's and Heloise's. His catchphrase is "Jimmy, you mad genius!", which he often says when he has an idea. Jimmy's parents are never seen or mentioned.

Growing up, Jimmy was spoiled and rich although he was a very well-behaved boy and everyone added "Two-Shoes" to his name due to this, even if he got a bit hyperactive at times and misbehaved a lot in early elementary school (notably Pre-K to Grade 4) resulting in being sent out in the hall and missing recess.

Heloise



A tomboyish yet destructive small girl, Heloise is a serial killer who was sent to Heck, she was hired by Lucifer to torture Jimmy in the afterlife, which she was eager to do, but she has a borderline personality disorder that caused her to flip-flop between loving Jimmy and torturing him. She has the appearance of a diminutive, charming little girl with highlighted beige hair and dark blue eyes. She wears a maroon gown, regardless of location, and has been seen occasionally wearing glasses or shades. She usually wears her hair in a ponytail, and she has a scar on her forehead that is mostly covered by her hair. (The scar has no real meaning outside of making her look more intimidating, the show never acknowledges it nor was an answer given as to she got it.) Despite the appearance, she does have feet, but all her outfits are full-length and reach the ground, so they've never been seen. Heloise does not attend school.

She does have feelings for Jimmy, proven by her shrine dedicated to him in a small room hidden behind a bookcase that has been "found" by other characters. She has a hair-trigger, violent temper. She has a crush on Jimmy but doesn't particularly care for Beezy, tolerating him (barely) mainly because of her fondness for Jimmy. She is also annoyed at Jimmy's constant naivete to obvious problems. She sometimes wonders why she likes him (In reality, Jimmy's good nature appeals to the last shred of humanity in her). She seems incredibly happy and proud of Jimmy for being mean to Lucifer. One of her most common lines is "Don't get your horns in a twist", a phrase she often uses when dealing with Lucifer.

She is envious of other girls who so much as encounter Jimmy; one time, she thought Jez and Jimmy were dating when really, he was just trying to help her. She is 14 and is considerably smaller than Jimmy. She does not engage in any 'normal' activities, and she has been called "little girl" by a few people (including Jimmy) which usually ended up with her getting even.

Being nice is impossible for her, no matter how hard she tries, because her evil side always wins over. She is generally in her best mood if she is spending time with Jimmy, particularly if they are alone; however, she can quickly lose her temper if someone intrudes or if Jimmy fails to pick up on her affections, or anything that annoys her at all occurs. She seems to be a long-time resident of the underworld, as she is completely clueless when Jimmy mentions snow. It is shown that just about everyone in Heck thinks she's scary. It is also shown that Heloise will do whatever it takes to cause misery, especially when it comes to Beezy and Lucifer. The only person she ever tries to help is Jimmy. Heloise lives next door to Jimmy in a two-story house with a barbecue in the backyard. She is a fan of Runny and the Nosebleeds.

Beezy

Beezy Jojo Heinous is the lazy, dimwitted son of Lucifer Heinous VII and the 8th in line to be the ruler of Miseryville. He is the first male member of his family in 8 generations not to be named Lucifer, this is because of his mom wanting to differentiate him from past members of his family. He is also the first one to not be outright evil and have sinister intellect, as he would rather hang out with his friends Jimmy and Heloise than spread misery, much to his father's dismay. Because of this, he has an estranged and very strained relationship with his father. He is also the current prince of heck.

His personality is (Somewhat) dimwitted, lazy, and self-centered. Instead of spreading misery, Beezy instead prefers to lazily loaf around, eat and play games than actually spread misery, a fact which greatly upsets his disappointed father who often thinks so little of Beezy because of this that he will sometimes even attempt to ignore the fact that he has a son.

He is frequently seen lying on couches, even outdoors. Beezy is essentially the epitome of gluttony and slothfulness, and is constantly eating, sleeping, or talking on his cell phone. Like a true glutton, Beezy enjoys eating to excess and there's almost no food he doesn't like, and he has even been known to eat non-food substances like rocks and trash, but despite these low standards of eating he has an intense hatred for pizza crust. Beezy doesn't exactly like Heloise, and it is only because of Jimmy that they bother to stay friends, and even then, both of them often fight about who is Jimmy's best friend, and Heloise often teases Beezy by calling him ‘Sir Lumps-a-Lot’ as a derogatory nickname as well as many other insults. He often tries to play tricks on her, but they usually backfire.

Although Beezy is extremely dimwitted, he is also shown to be quite good at deceiving others, such as tricking Jimmy and his father, possibly implying Beezy is not entirely unlike his evil father.

Despite his generally lax nature and lack of evil intent, there have been some moments where Beezy has shown some traits that would imply that he at least has some evil in him like his father, like how unlike Jimmy, Beezy would rather spend time being lazy or complimenting himself than help others unless he gets something in return. He rarely even helps his friends when they need him, with Jimmy often needing to bribe him with food just to get his help. It is only Beezy's incredible stupidity that helps keep his evil nature in check.

He is also an avid music lover, much like Heloise, with both of them being big fans of Runny and the Nosebleeds, and he even owns his own electric keyboard. Beezy constantly uses the catchphrase "No you are!" as a comeback, even if it doesn't make sense.

Lucifer

The famous tyrannical ruler of Heck. Lucifer is the devil, with red skin and horns and is also the father of Beezy J. Heinous. He is the main antagonist of the series and is a sadistic, hot headed, selfish and just plain heinous dictator of Miseryville. He has great contempt for his archenemy Jimmy, because of his happy-go-lucky attitude which often foils his plots to make the living world and his town even more miserable via Misery Inc. (which he takes immense joy in doing.) Yes, this guy is responsible for your flat tire, ruined birthday, and pretty much anything else that is miserable. He resembles the stereotypical villain as he is cold, malevolent, narcissistic, and self-serving. Lucifer seems to think looking gross or smelling bad is a good thing and he owns a pair of underwear that he only washes every 6 months. He is shown to be the judge and the jury in the underworld.

Beezy, his son, rebels against his wishes, which he blames Jimmy for, and a wife named Jez. He has at least five bodyguards/helpers, his main one being General Molotov, and the other four are minotaur-like quadruplets. He also has a father whom he keeps frozen (along with his ancestors back to Lucifer I). He had a miserable childhood and had painful flashbacks of how his father was cruel to him, he was actually very cheerful and happy but very sensitive. Although his father made sure to make him miserable, so much so that he got mad at his father and froze him. He's an idiot when it comes to making new, miserable ideas and relies totally on Dorkus's inventions. He has been known to inevitably take credit for; but if something goes wrong, he blames Dorkus. Despite that, he can run the underworld fine. Lucifer actually has some very terrifying and dangerous powers, including the ability to alter reality itself, but he doesn't use them out of pride and believes he doesn't need them to rule. (Although he does sometimes accidently use them when he gets mad.) He also dislikes anything that has to do with fun and happiness (unless it's fun and happy for him), this leads him to especially hate Jimmy since nothing ever seems to make him miserable. He also hates his father Lucifer the 6th and the rest of the Heinouses.

His exact age is not known but he is at least four hundred years old, that was how long it took his horns to grow, He says that he is "barely seven hundred [years old]." Lucifer sometimes takes his eyes out, takes out a cloth and polishes them, then puts them back in his head when he sees something he doesn't believe is happening. He is also short and is an egomaniac who is part of a Napoleon complex.

Samy Garvin

Samuel "Samy" Garvin is Lucifer's assistant, he has dreams of stardom and fame, and is rather timid, sensitive, weak, and is often verbally abused by his boss. He resembles a short, goblin creature. He also worked for Lucy's father, Lucifer Heinous VI, for at least 87 years and he says he worked for Misery Inc. for a couple of hundred years. He is usually assigned to do the most disgusting or dangerous jobs. He speaks with a lateral lisp and is shown to be actively dreaming of stardom. He is a best-selling writer.

He dislikes Jimmy, Beezy, and Heloise but can tolerate them more than Lucifer. Samy is shown sleeping at the end of Lucy’s bed which could mean he doesn't own a house. (Quick note, He is not straight, just someone with a pathetically desperate need to feel needed and more important than he is.) Samy doesn’t exactly like his job at Misery Inc. or serving Lucy. In fact, he himself had said that he would take over Lucifer's position if he only knew how. He’s a typical fascist – cowardly and obsequious to those above him, and a tyrant to those "below" him. He does not have a girlfriend or crushes.

Minor characters

Jez

She is Lucifer's wife and is the queen of heck and is also Beezy’s mom. She resembles a tall, blue devil-like creature. He started dating her just a few days before jimmy arrived to Miseryville. Their relationship can be best described as ‘rocky’. She can barely remember his name (Usually calling him Lucius.) and the only way she follows him on his schemes to destroy Jimmy is being promised expensive things, but Lucifer is convinced she loves him. She is very selfish and spoiled, Jez often threatens to break up with Lucifer if he is unable to please her (An act which is near impossible as she is shown to be very picky). She lives in a white mansion near Misery Inc. because she thinks it is disgusting, has a dog named Jasmeen, and a butler named Butley.

Saffi

Saffi is an orange, one-eyed, monster-like creature with a simple and feral personality. She usually doesn't say many words aside from 'crush', and 'yogurt', but she can talk. She spends her time rambling and acting like a lunatic while yelling nonsense or causing mayhem, even spending her time crawling around in trash cans and collecting garbage, which her home is also littered with. She has a hatred for statues and will destroy any that she sees. In fact, one of only two sentences she spoke in the entire series was clear, "No, I just hate statues." She is also a common foil to jimmy's and Lucifer's plans, resolution in her only other line. "Must crush Lucifer!"

A minor subplot for the series involves her finding her true boyfriend, but I save that one for the final product. An interesting thing to note is in one scene, she questions herself on why she is so crazy.

Dorkus

Dorkus is one of the nicer workers at Misery Inc. His position is as the Head of R&D (research and development), where he makes products to cause misery against his will. He is shy, nerdy, and is scared of his boss Lucifer and wishes that Samy would take over (See his bio for more info.). Being one of the nicer employees at Misery Inc. (And really heck in general besides you know how.) He is among the lowest ranked workers of the company. Back when he was alive, he was the secretary to a major company, but he doesn't exactly remember how or why he died.

Other characters that I have in mind.

Rudolfo

He is a greedy, sly traveling salesman who tries to sell things that don't work or will do anything to make a quick buck. He speaks with a British accent and travels around in a mobile shop on wheels. His fate is unknown though some say that he died when he was running from the police.

Runny and the Nosebleeds

Runny and the Nosebleeds are a punk rock band which is popular in the underworld. Heloise, Beezy, and most of Miseryville are fans of their music.

The Awe Guy

The Awe Guy is a small purple man, who can sound like an entire church choir by himself. He is commonly used to imply things as heavenly or great. No one knows what's the deal is with him, nor how did he end up in the underworld.

Lava Worm

Lava Worms are thick pink worms with a mouth full of crooked jagged teeth. These creatures are seen throughout the series as more of a running gag than a character. The lava worm is an entire species, as it has different voices each time it appears. A lava worm is also kind of an insult in the underworld, often to the dislike of the creatures themselves. Examples- The last one to the bottom is a dirty lava worm!' 'What am I? Some ugly disgusting lava worm?' There are also Big Lava Worms that are found borrowing on the beaches of Heck. They often burst out of the sand headfirst and swallow anyone or anything that's there.

Jimmy One-Shoe

Okay this one is more of a joke idea, Jimmy One-Shoe is a demon with only one leg who dresses like Jimmy. The idea of the joke being that Lucifer calls upon Samy to catch Jimmy two shoes, but mistakes one shoes as him.

Chuck the Bus-Driver

He is a corpse with a pink nose and grey skin. The reason he's in Heck is because he had a heart attack and was killed in a certain bus accident. He used to be Beezy and Heloise's best friend before Jimmy came to Miseryvile, but they found him annoying and left him.

The many baddies in Miseryvile

There are many bad guys here in the underworld, here are some ideas.

- Pirates & Vikings
- Sock Burglars & Bandits
- Gangsters and mobs
- Crusaders from the holy wars
- Evil / Mad Scientists & Monsters
- Corrupt Businessmen / Wealthy Capitalists
- Dan Schneider (Yes, That Dan Schneider.)
- Serial Killers
- And hellish creatures such as Demons and Imps

Locations

Heck-The main setting for the entire series. It is home to Miseryville, Westeranvile, and pretty much the rest of the towns of the show. It is Miseryville - The town is under the control of Lucifer. Its purpose is to sustain the lowest quality of life possible. Miseryville is found somewhere in Heck and is shaped like the Miseryville logo, it has a red sky and is known for being extremely hot. Its inhabitants are mostly the many bad souls from the land of the living and monsters; it is also Jimmy and Heloise's home. Lucy's factory overshadows the town. It is surrounded by tall mountains, grassy meadows, forests with semi dead trees, and volcanoes. It appears all the lakes and other places that should have water have lava instead, but the characters can swim in them without burning up (usually). It is said that it has never snowed in Miseryville and was possibly founded in 1200 ad or older.

There are screens and cameras that Lucifer (and occasionally Samy) use to communicate with the town's citizens and villains all over town. Although the town is considered a terrible place to live it does have fun places like theaters, swimming pools, beaches, etc. (although they all seem to have some horrible twist).

Misery Inc. - A huge factory run by Lucifer, which resembles a large face. The workers in the factory make various products intended to make people on earth and in Heck miserable. Dorkus has a laboratory there, Lucifer has an office where he lives most of the time, the office has a framed picture of Jez that Sammy took behind her back. There is a huge "conference room", and there are TVs and cameras everywhere. Many monsters and beasts work there against their will and get no time off, no pay, and no benefits from their jobs.

The Abyss of Nothingness - It is said to be a vast black hole filled with misery and despair from which no one can escape. However, due to how heck's way of bringing back to live 'dead' people works, (See Jimmy's description for details.) sometimes characters can actually reappear outside of the abyss seconds later in a later scene.

Jimmy's House - Is seen as a simple house with a red roof, two windows, and a light red door. Two trees are standing beside it. Jimmy's house is between Beezy's and Heloise's houses, their homes are separated by hedges.

Beezy's House - Usually shown to be a big messy pile of junk inside. Chuck describes it as one of the darkest and most disgusting places in Miseryville. Beezy's house is a unique place with its skull-like appearance and horns, with two windows resemble eyes on their gray surface. It looks extremely similar to his father's house.

Heloise's House - Heloise's house is a tall blue building that is basically normal on the inside. The living room is large with a fireplace and a couch. Behind the bookcase, there is a secret shrine to Jimmy. The bedroom is colored blue with a blue bed. Contrary to her personality, there are many girly things about her house such as her pink computer and other various decorations. The backyard is filled with tombstones and a barbecue, which she uses quite often.

Miseryville Beach - A beach beside an ocean of lava. Most people don't swim in it because it's filled with sea monsters, and under the sand are lava worms that eat the citizens.

Miseryville metro- A subway system that makes its way through the underworld and makes a pitstop in Miami Florida. (That last bit is a reference but I ain't saying where it's from to aggravate you.)

Miseryville Golf Course - A mini-golf course that was built on a volcano for lucifer on work breaks.

Westeranvile-Is a ghost town...literally, a brand-new area made exclusively for Reignited. Located in one of the dessert areas of the underworld far beyond Miseryville, it is home to some of the vilest bandits from the gold rushes of the 1800's.

Misery Island - A popular vacation spot that is only visited during Spring Break. It has two sides: one pleasant and nice, and the other evil and deadly. The pleasant side is probably the only place in Heck that you actually want to visit.

Style

The format of the show is unique as it only has 20-40 episodes in a single season, this is to make room for quality and less work.

The humor of the show is basically a mix of lighthearted and dark jokes. The show's demographic is ages 10-13 and is meant for everybody. There are a few jokes for adults here and there to spice things up. The series is semi scripted, but if you like, the actors can improv the jokes and dialogue on the spot.

Inspiration comes from 'The Twisted Tales of Felix,' and cartoons from the 90's-2010's. The art direction is taken from the original concept art of the pilot and 2000's cartoons.

Examples.

TNT

55
52
51
JIMMY TWO SHOES